

Orbital Returns (again)

After a five year hiatus the brothers Hartnoll have decided to bury the hatchet. As this is their second come back and I am an obsessive Orbital fan, I had no idea that they had such an acrimonious relationship at times but it's good to hear that they are back on track and I hope a US tour is somewhere in the future. If you want to hear their current rework of Kinetic you can check out the Guardian article. But for a trip back in time check out the original as well under the guise Golden Girls.

Also check out this short interview over at the BBC as well about what's coming next.